

Travelling White Star

Passengers who chose to travel White Star were treated on board to service of an exceptionally high standard and quality. The steward service, luxurious surroundings, and the amenities on board all added to the famous “White Star Service.”

While on board a vessel of the White Star Line, passengers could send and receive telegrams via the Marconi radio, read from a well stocked ships library and even take in exercise in the gymnasium and swimming pool. Whilst taking a stroll along deck first class passengers may have brushed shoulders with the rich and famous, including Charlie Chaplin or the H.R.H. The Duke of Windsor to name a few who chose to travel White Star!

Dining was a treat; it was like being in some large and sumptuous hotel, the food was plentiful and absolutely delicious with a wide range available to suit everyone’s appetite. A bugler would play “The Roast Beef of Old England” to summon passengers to dinner.

From embarkation to disembarkation travelling White Star was an unforgettable experience, which prompted repeat voyages on board one of the many ships of the famous White Star Line.
